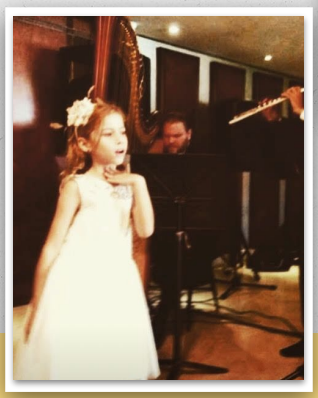
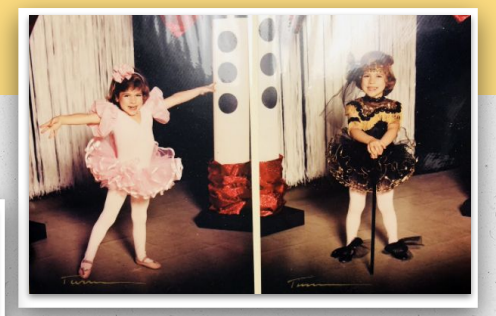
She didn't think she was good enough to sing for her grand-mother, who's also her single parent...



Her principle mentioned their family couldn't afford a caretaker for after school...



Then her teacher mentioned she dreams to dance.

Music 4 Minors Public Charity, est. 2014

Living with her grandmother on the streets she said she didn't need an instrument that someone else could make use of but that she could use a pair of pants that fit, or a doll to play with.

She said, "Oh, wow, I never thought I'd get my own pair of jeans!"

They also received their first stovetop for cooking hot meals.

OR, if you're feeling really generous...

We were small once too-

But that didn't stop us from making BiG & powerful change around the world.

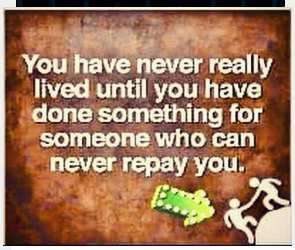
In 2011 we went to Venezuela, South America during a food shortage & dictatorship. Students were getting kicked out of school entirely for not having uniforms & their Music program was non-existent. There were no opportunities for learning in the Arts.



In 2016, we went on a mission trip to Bali, Indonesia to help children orphaned during the AIDs epidemic there. There were so many that the orphanages were full and some families took on 8 or more children as grandparents living in a two-bedroom.
